

IN MEMORIAM

Borislav D. Bojanov
(1944–2009)

Academician Borislav Bojanov suddenly passed away on April 8, 2009. There are no words to describe the shock and overwhelming sadness that all of us, his friends and colleagues, felt. A man of high talent, kindness and intelligence suddenly spirited away at the age of only sixty four, before he had time to achieve many of the things he was dreaming of.

Professor Bojanov's research spanned over a big variety of topics, mainly in the area of Approximation Theory, Classical and Numerical Analysis. Distinctive features of his work were the elegant arguments and deep insight, which allowed him to find far reaching extensions and generalizations.
